

The Game Series: Risks and Threats

In Part 3 of the Game Series, we move to a classic strategy boardgame where decisions on resource allocation resemble the choices institutions face when entering a new market. Institutions face multiple risks and threats in a variety of areas. Unfortunately, no institution has unlimited resources, and no institution can focus on all risks equally all the time. Different jurisdictions, sectors, and current events impact risk in substantial and often hard-to-predict ways. Deciding which risks to prioritize based on a tailored, dynamic assessment of the regulatory landscape faced by your organization is the cornerstone of good governance.

What are the risks faced by your organization? Turn to us to help mitigate them.

